

Climate Conversations: Seeking Facts, Striving for Honest Balance

Introduction

Welcome to the Let's Climunicate podcast! Dive into the heart of climate debate with your host, Dr. Alberto Troccoli, a world leader in climate science applied to energy, dedicated to unraveling the complexities of climate change. Join him as he tackles questions such as: Is global warming real? Is climate change irreversible? with his distinguished guests in 1-on-1 interviews. Each episode not only sheds light on these pressing questions but also inspires with practical action steps you can take every day. Tune in and transform your understanding of climate change with Let's Climunicate!

Some background

Climate change stands as one of the most intricate challenges of our time, a puzzle so vast that no single expert holds all the answers – in fact, even the collective wisdom of leading authorities, such as those within the IPCC, acknowledges the gaps in our understanding. Moreover, climate change discussions are often mired in controversy and division. Through this podcast series, we aim to illuminate the many facets of climate change, by talking with experts from various disciplines, to provide the most comprehensive insights possible. Our goal is to inform our listeners with a well-rounded perspective, drawing on expert analysis and diverse viewpoints to navigate the complexities of this global issue.

Find out more at: <http://www.albertotroccoli.org/wp/podcast>

Find us and subscribe on

YouTube channel

Spotify link

Apple Podcast link

Together, let's foster a balanced and practical perspective on climate change, turning dissonance into harmony. Subscribe to Let's Climunicate today!